ENTERPRISE HIGH SCHOOL

Redding, California

left to right: M. Starr, J. Espinosa, S. Butcher, L. Swindler, H. Andersson, V. Serpa, J. Dyer.

Foreword

It is with great pleasure that this 1958 edition of the Vespa is presented to you. Our sincere thanks goes to you the Students who have cooperated with us in its production.

The 1958 Vespa is yours. You made it; we preserved it through word and picture. It is our hope it meets with your approval.

THE SCHOOL YEAR

Early in November, the school was closed because of the flu epidemic . . .

the classrooms were almost empty . . .

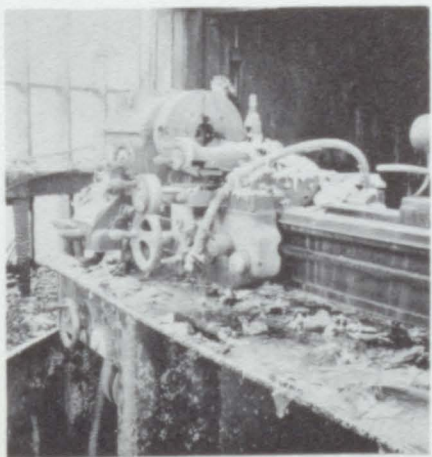

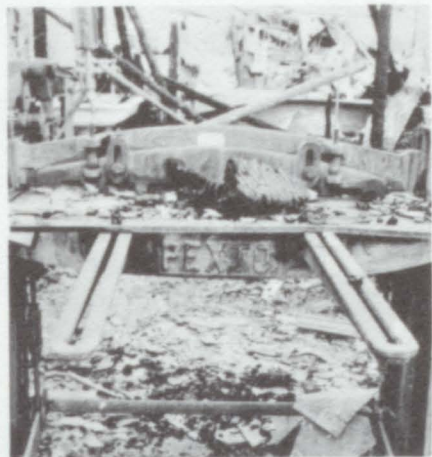

. . . and we lost the big one!

... then, too, we had construction and destruction

In appreciation of her helpfulness, cheerfulness, and friendly interest, the staff affectionately dedicates to Mrs. Vera Knight this 1958 edition of the Enterprise High School VESPA.

Superintendent's Message

With science and technology on the verge of conquering outer space, today's youth has a challenge which is more daring than perhaps has ever existed before. The launching of satellites from the earth and the very realistic plans for sending space probes to the moon, ought to jar any apathetic students into a realization of the possibilities of some of the new challenges and new frontiers.

Man's continuing progress calls for an increased warehouse of knowledge and experience. To understand the world about us today, one needs to be at least an amateur scientist; but achievement in the field of science is inadequate and dangerous without the corresponding development of moral and spiritual values. Science without a soul is much like knowledge without wisdom. However well trained, the mind cannot operate to a man's own good in a spiritual vacuum. If our civilization is to survive, the leaders of men must serve with humility and good will.

For the class of '58, there are many indications of a good life ahead but there is no room for complacency and blind conformity; the future calls for courage and imagination. To those who want adventure, the challenge is even greater than was the challenge to Edison, the scientist, or to Lewis and Clark, the explorers.

It is our hope that the graduates of our high schools will match the challenge of this age with a desire and ambition to achieve their full potential. Continuing beyond high school offers opportunity for high adventure in areas which only yesterday seemed like a silly dreamer's dream.

Jackson Price

Principal's Message

Education worthy of the name has always been a medium for promulgating either the truth or that which by the best available standards appears as the truth. As such, it is concerned with principles and qualities that change slowly or not at all.

Most laws of physics, for example, have endured without change for centuries, although the applications of these laws have been continuously refined and improved. Occasionally, even the laws themselves will be affected. Einstein's equations are examples of such fundamental change. However, the rapid and spectacular scientific progress that is producing such startling changes in our environment usually involves a few unchanging principles in an endless multiplicity of applications.

Human values also change slowly or not at all. Integrity, responsibility, industry, patience and understanding are much needed in all fields of endeavor. Education here at Enterprise High, as elsewhere, must endeavor to meet this universal need. If it does so, our graduates will serve both themselves and their country well.

Charles F. Denny

Intramural Basketball

Champions

B. Corley, M. Porter, A. Crowe, D. Phelps,
M. Liddell, L. Warren, G. Almgren.

The intramural basketball program is the setting for battles which rival in spirit and fury the varsity and junior varsity competition. From the many teams in each gym period emerges a victor, which in turn challenges the winners of the other gym periods. The quintet that comes out on top is the recipient of the Tin Can Trophy.

Model U. N. Delegates

Again this year the social studies classes had the opportunity of picking a team to represent Tunisia in Berkeley at the model UN Conference. The Enterprise delegation performed admirably and gained keener admiration for the duties and responsibilities of the United Nations Institute.

Debate Team

B. Lambert, V. English, R. Harris

A new program was instituted this year by the Language Arts Department with the organization of a Debate Team. The initial year proved to be an outstanding one and even bigger success for the future is predicted.

G. A. A.

In addition to the many interesting activities which comprise the varied G.A.A. program, a new and highly popular monthly Co-rec night was begun this year. Judging from the huge turnout each time, this event will undoubtedly become a permanent feature.

EDITORIAL
Variety needed

Nothing is so boring as to sit in an assembly and have to do the same yells over and over again. The leading is good but more variety and new ideas are needed. Much of this boringness is due to the fact that the same old yells are repeated over and over again. The leading is good but more variety and new ideas are needed. Much of this boringness is due to the fact that the same old yells are repeated over and over again.

Advice Given

Mr. Hegitt believes that students interested in becoming teachers should get as much experience as possible in the field. He is most interested in the Bachelor's degree in Education. He enjoys most, he says, the requirement that a teacher should be a member of the Education Club. He also believes that a teacher should be a member of the Education Club.

Information To Be Given

The student body Academic Committee will soon be making plans for the second annual general information test. This test was initiated by the committee and recognizing the best score kids at Enterprise. Fogerson, whose name is perpetuated on the plaque in the main foyer, has placed third in school. They are Fogerson Brothers. They will undoubtedly be back again for first place.

BASEBALL

The baseball team, its ranks depleted by the loss of last year's seniors, managed to compile an acceptable record in competition with bigger schools in Northern California. The future appears very promising as many members of the varsity this year were Freshmen and Sophomores.

Because of the early printing deadline, records of the teams' achievements was impossible; however, at the time the yearbook was sent, the three teams had already managed to establish a number of records and mark Enterprise as one of the track powerhouses of Northern California.
